Dear Alex:

The article on "Death in the West" appeared in the October 28, 1983 "Week in Review" and I enclose herewith a copy thereof.

It is interesting to note that Professor Glance "now knows where the print came from but will not say."

What really disturbed me is that "the distribution of the film and curriculum has been taken over by a private distributor whose aim is to have the film shown in schools." It also appears that the Pacific Mountain Network will feed the film by satellite to 300 non-commercial stations.

Although PM has an impeccable legal position, I presume nothing will be done about this.

My best as always.

Sincerely,

T. Newman Lawler
